

Hawaiian Telcom Selects Interland as Primary Provider of Web Services: Hawaiian Telcom to Offer Customers Web Services Including Website Design, Hosting, Email and eCommerce

ATLANTA, Feb. 14, 2006 (PRIMEZONE) -- Interland (Nasdaq:INLD), soon to be Web.com, Inc., a leading provider of websites and online services for small and medium-sized businesses (SMBs), today announced that Hawaiian Telcom, the leading telecommunications provider for the state of Hawaii, agreed to resell Interland's website design, hosting, email, eCommerce and various Web services to Hawaiian Telcom's customer base. Specific terms of the deal are not disclosed.

"Interland's depth of knowledge and expertise in Web services made them the right partner for our company," stated Joan Kratz, Chief Marketing Officer for Hawaiian Telcom. "We're confident our customers who seek these services will be pleased with the variety and quality this partnership offers."

Under the terms of this deal, Hawaiian Telcom will migrate its current customers on similar services over to Interland and offer Interland's website and hosting services to new customers moving forward. Hawaiian Telcom is equipped with both "feet on the street" and tele-sales people that will be able to sell Web services.

"We are excited to work with Hawaiian Telcom and serve their website and hosting needs," stated Jeff Stibel, President and CEO, Interland. "Hawaiian Telcom is a strong company and encompasses everything we look for in a business partner."
