

Web.com Announces Partnership With Regus

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 20, 2011 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Web.com Group, Inc. (Nasdaq:WWW), a leading provider of Internet services and online marketing solutions for small businesses, today announced a marketing agreement with Regus, the world's largest provider of flexible workplaces. Web.com will offer priority access and promotional pricing for Web.com's eWorksXL! website design product and Company Facebook Pages to Regus' nearly one million customers, and in return, Web.com's nearly one million customers will have access to Regus' 1,200 business centers worldwide as part of the company's Businessworld Gold membership program.

"To be successful today, small businesses require the flexibility and reach of solutions that are tailor-fit to their needs," said David Brown, chairman and chief executive officer of Web.com, "Our do-it-for-me website design services deliver optimal visibility in this era of local online search, and they are a perfect match for Regus' office solutions which allow individuals and companies to work however, wherever, and whenever they need to."

As part of the agreement, Web.com will design, create and optimize an eWorksXL website for Regus customers, positioning them for greater visibility on the Internet. Web.com will also create a custom Company Facebook Page for Regus customers, allowing these small businesses to meet their customers across the burgeoning world of social media.

In exchange, Web.com customers will have the opportunity to access the business lounges and cafes operated by Regus in more than 1200 Business centers across 550 cities in 90 countries. In addition, they will also receive special rates and offers on Regus' Virtual Office and full-time office agreements.

"As a result of this alliance, we are able to offer Regus customers yet another tool that enables them to grow their business," said Michael Haas, Regus Director of Partnerships. "Regus helps small businesses around the world work more effectively and we look forward to providing Web.com customers with the support they need to drive their business forward."
