Web.com Invites Charlotte Area Small Businesses to Free Online Marketing Seminar

Free Small Business Summit to be Held at Quail Hollow Golf Club During the Wells Fargo Championship

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 23, 2014 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Web.com (Nasdaq:WWW), a leading provider of Internet services and online marketing solutions for small businesses, will host a free Small Business Summit specifically designed to help small business owners learn how to successfully increase visibility and market themselves online. The Small Business Summit will take place on Tuesday, April 29, 2014, from 11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. at Quail Hollow Golf Club, during the Wells Fargo Championship. Through Web.com's agreement with the PGA TOUR and as umbrella sponsor of the Web.com Tour, Web.com developed the Small Business Summit as a benefit to small business owners in communities across the country.

Mark Pompeo, district sales manager for Wells Fargo's Carolina SBA Lending Group, will be the opening speaker at the Web.com Small Business Summit, and Web.com vice president of Marketing Debbi Lechner will share information and tools to help small business owners increase visibility and optimize marketing efforts online.

"At Wells Fargo, we know the importance of small businesses in driving economic recovery and job growth in the Charlotte Area and to the continued success of our region," Pompeo said. "We also think it's important that small business owners have access to the guidance and resources they need to be successful. It's the reason we participate in events like The Small Business Summit, where business owners can network, learn and find ways to improve and grow their business."

Topics and content at the Small Business Summit focus on ways small business owners can achieve a successful Internet presence, including the elements of a great website, how to determine if their website is working for them, increasing traffic to their website and business, and decoding how to efficiently market their business on Google, Facebook and Twitter.

"Web.com has established a long-term commitment to give back to the communities we serve. Through our free Small Business Summit, we give small business owners the opportunity to hear from experts on how they can better market their businesses online," said Lechner. "Every day, Web.com helps millions of business owners address the challenges of building and maintaining an effective web presence that helps their businesses grow. Each Small Business Summit covers a range of key, timely topics designed to address the online challenges small business owners face."

Web.com is focused on helping small businesses succeed online and works with millions of business owners every day. At every Small Business Summit, Web.com leaders share best practices that address the real-world challenges small business owners face when trying to market online and engage through social media channels. Attendees will receive important information on how to implement key aspects of their digital outreach opportunities.
