Web.com Announces Ticker Symbol Change to WEB

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9, 2015 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Web.com Group, Inc. (Nasdaq:WWWV), a leading provider of Internet services and online marketing solutions for small businesses, today announced that it will change its Nasdaq ticker symbol to WEB. The new symbol will become effective upon the market's open on November 10, 2015.

David L. Brown, chairman, chief executive officer and president of Web.com commented, "Today we are excited to extend the branding of Web.com with the change of our stock symbol to WEB. This memorable ticker symbol clearly aligns with Web.com's role as a leading provider of online marketing solutions for small businesses. We are pleased to announce this as we commemorate our ten year anniversary of being listed on the Nasdaq."

To celebrate this event, the Nasdaq has invited the Company to ring the closing bell on its first day of trading under the new WEB symbol. The bell will be rung by Mr. Brown, who will be joined by several of the longtime employees who helped build Web.com into the nationally recognized brand that it is today.

As of November 10, 2015 all stock trading, filings and market related information will be reported under the new symbol WEB. The CUSIP for the Company's common stock will remain unchanged. Outstanding stock certificates are not affected by the ticker symbol change and do not need to be exchanged.
